

Ron Braverman

PRESIDENT AND CEO

DOC JOHNSON®

Doc Johnson was born in 1976 when Ron Braverman purchased a very small company that sold adult toys along with gag novelties and rubber fishing items. When he realized that adult toys had a huge demographic without any real central supplier, he renamed the company Doc Johnson and worked towards becoming America's most imminent producer of adult products. His mission was to create the most superior products on the market; and keeping manufacturing in America was extremely important to him as his way of supporting the economy and the local community.

Since the company's beginnings in 1976, the Doc Johnson brand has grown and evolved-- but one theme that has remained constant is a strong commitment to American manufacturing. Today, Doc Johnson is the largest adult toy manufacturing company in the world, with a facility that encompasses over eight acres with departments to handle everything from conception to shipping. Not only does Doc Johnson manufacture over 75% of all products in America, the company is also proud to have developed and released some of the most innovative, pleasurable, and top-quality products on the market.
